

Davis Bog Preserve and Trail, Morrill

Davis Bog Preserve, a 40-acre white cedar wetland in the Town of Morrill, is owned by the Mid-Coast Chapter of Maine Audubon Society and maintained by BBWC. It flows into the larger Smiths Millpond Bog, and then Smiths Millpond, one of the headwaters of the Passagassawakeag River.

The trailhead is located at 129 Higgins Hill Road, about one mile from Route 3. Park on the roadside and follow the blue paint blazes through the dooryard on a 1200-ft right-of-way downhill to the preserve. The 3/4-mile trail continues through part of the preserve above water level.

A highlight is the “moss garden,” although most of the trail is a moss, liverwort, and lichen-scape. Follow the same trail in reverse on your way out.
